About assaults
Female party stuck with her account, not disclosing any offences other than a verbal DA. Page 4	She has then told these officers about the previous assault and stated that he strangled her before -- note that when asked by earlier officers if there had been any other assaults she said no, and she said no when ppn question about strangulation, possible this will need revisiting for clarification. Page 4	During PPN questions the victim also disclosed that around 3 months ago, during an argument the suspect lost the temper and he grabbed her round the throat with one hand pushing her to the bed. She also disclosed that he has kicked her in the stomach previously, she thinks this was around 1 year ago. She could not provide any more details for either assault. Page 15	Why she didn't mention these assaults when officers asked her before?
She also stated that about three months ago he had put his hand round her throat and pushed her onto the bed in the spare room. Page 29			This is a lie. During a previous conversation with the police, my ex-partner stated that there were no incidents between the incident in November 2021 when she broke my nose and June 2023.
Female party confirms 1) She has not been assaulted or threatened. 2) Male party has not damaged or threatened to damage property belonging to the victim 3) Both her and the male party are named on the address. Page 23	Caller says they didn't as there was no domestic violence until now. Page 28	Victim last reported a domestic abuse incident with ex-husband in 2017 when they had both been drinking and had a verbal argument. Page 29	What was the reason to call the Police?

The female party also disclosed that a while ago (possibly a year or more ago) the male had pushed her or kicked her in the stomach after she had hit him, but this was not reported. No other DA between the two since this incident. Page 23.	Apart from one previous incident and this incident there hasn't been anything physical. Page 31 and 32	On one occasion, the Respondent showed me an old picture of his broken nose and jokingly suggested that I had caused his injury. However, in later argument, the Respondent accused me of having broken his nose, although this was a work-related injury. Page 43 [...]In 2021, the Respondent and I were arguing, and he left the house and returned later that night completely drunk with a nosebleed. [...] I have never seen the photos he claims to have taken, so I do not know what it looks like. Page 53	Three versions of the same incident. In the first version, she admitted to hitting me, in the second version, she claims that I broke my nose at work, and in the third version, I came home drunk with a broken nose.
During the PPN questions, victim disclosed that on the previous incident, Majewski has grabbed her by the throat. Victim states she does not think it was intentional but he lost his temper. Page 32	Victim disclosed an unfatal, intentional stragulation 3 months ago. Page 27.
Victim states that he does not pay for any bills, food, etc. Page 32			It is a lie.

The Respondent would slam doors and as a result has broken the front door. Page 49 and 50			When I moved in to the property, doors to the bedroom had huge hole - I replaced them, front door has damaged hinges - fixed them. The applicant admitted that the door was damaged during a quarrel and fights with one of her previous partners. Additionally, she stated that the garden door had been previously replaced by Abri because it was also damaged.
I have also seen his phone where he searched "Love at the first signs with Aries" Page 55			This phrase I searched 15 September 2023. She still has access to my devices.

Female party stuck with her account, not disclosing any offences other than a verbal DA and wishing for the male party to "give her space" and to leave the address, which is also his home. Page 4	Informant states that her partner back into address, knocked on the back door and was sat in the garden. Page 23 [...] Officers have attended and engaged with both parties - Female located inside the premises and male located outside in the garden. Page 23	He has sat in the garden in an apparent attempt to goad her. Page 23
On Saturday 24th June 2023 at 7PM DP were called to attend 9 Kingfisher Close. Bournemouth LT officers attended, and it was resulted as a verbal DA with WOA given to both parties. Page 15	Male party was spoken too and presented as reasonable. Page 23 [...] Suspect was calm and compliant. Page 29	Caller states he is sitting and smiling (smirking?) at her. Page 28 [...] Caller states her son is terrified.	Is smiling the reason to call the Police? Why her son was terrified?
Female party advised that male is leaving to allow female some space, advised to keep doors locked and if male returns to the address, not to engage with him and keep property secure. Page 4	He came through the door and when I asked him to leave he pushed me against the wall. Page 28		Which door? In which room did this happen?
Most recently, in the late hours on 24th June 2023, the Respondent breached his bail conditions. Page 40	The Respondent attended our property later that day and had gain access through a windows as I had locked all the doors. Page 41		The events occurred on two different days.
24/06/2023 9PM

Since officers attended this incident the infmt has called in to say that the male returned to the address, as he could not get in he climbed through an upstairs window, he has assaulted her by pushing her against the wall. Page 4 [...]He came through the door and when I asked him to leave he pushed me against the wall. Page 28 [...]Majewski sat in the garden and waited for the opportunity to get into the house by the upstairs window. The victim then saw him downstairs. Page 32.	At approximately 21:47 the victim called Police again and reported that the suspect had re-entered the house and pushed her against a wall. This caused no injuries and he the walked upstairs and started having shower. Page 15 [...] Officers attended and the victim disclosed that whilst she was having a bath the suspect came into the house and when she challenged him, he used both hands to push her in the chest and against the door frame. Page 29	She said that 5 minutes after Police left the suspect sat in the garden just looking into the property. Then, whilst she was having a bath (son?) told her that the suspect was back inside the property. She challenged him in the living room where he walked up to her, said fuck off and pushed her with two hands against the door frame. The suspect then went to have a shower. Son came downstairs and saw she was crying, they then both immediately left the property going to the car park. Page 15 [...] He was don't even fucking talk to me and then he pushed me in the wall. Page 28	If she was having a bath, who saw the suspect looking into property? She stated she was having a bath - so how the suspect walked up to her in the living room? There is no access to the wall at all in the living room. Once she stated she was pushed against the wall, another time she stated it was against the door frame. She stated it was against the wall on the Page 18 and 28. Once she said I was not talking, and other time she stated I said fuck off. The name of the officer who speak with her inside the home.

[...] he grabbed a hold of me in a vice-like grip and pushed me forcefully against the wall. Consequently, my body slammed against the ground[...]my son proceeded to come downstairs [...] The Respondent immediately stepped away from me after seeing my son come downstairs. Page 41 [...] He pushed me to the wall with such force my body slammed on the ground. Page 43			Any sign of a fight? Injuries? Where exactly did it happen? She did not testify earlier that she was lying on the floor. Has anyone confirmed her version with her son's testimony? Did her son testify that he found her lying on the floor?
Officers spoke with (son?) who said that this had been on-going all day and that he was tired. He said that he was upstairs when he heard that the suspect was back inside the address. He heard a loud bang and went downstairs to see his mother crying. They then left the address.			What it means "had been on-going all day"? What exactly her son heard? Where her son had been?
Suspect was arrested yesterday - occ 55230098162 relates - where by he had pushed his ex partner after a verbal DA earlier in the evening where she kicked him out of the house when she discovered he had cheated on her with her friend. Page 10	Female party stated that she believed that the male party had slept with her friend who was staying with them at the address. Page 23		Why the Police say I pushed her? Which officer say that? Why the Applicant say I cheated her? When Applicant informed the suspect about splitting?

She said that 5 minutes after Police left the suspect sat in the garden. Page 15	Further call - inft states that the Police left 1.5 hours ago. Her husband was told to sleep in the garden, however he has re-entered into the house pushed the inft against the wall. Page 18	At this time, based on what has been said, there was no lawful power to prevent the male party from returning to the address. Page 23 [...] The Police asked him to stay away and he came back 5 minutes later. Page 28	Who told me to sleep in the garden? She stated once it was 5 minutes, and other time 1.5 hours after Police left. She realised, one call to the Police will be not enough to remove me from the tenancy, so she decided made up the story about assaults.
She transferred him £600 to stay at a hotel as it's her house. Page 28	Most recently, on 24th June 2023 [...]I transferred him £600.		She transferred £450 on 25th June 2023 - witness: officers Police

The suspect previously ignored Police advice to leave the property and not return. Page 30	At this time, based on what has been said, there was no lawful power to prevent the male party from returning to the address. Page 23		Officer Simon Shaw #1720 is lying. The Respondent further tried to frustrate matters at the last hearing, where he requested a statement from the Judge by my ex-partner (my son's father who has not been in contact for over 10 years) Page 56			The applicant violated the court's rulings. During the second hearing in court, the judge explicitly stated that the applicant, in her response to my statement, is not allowed to provide any new information.
Stalking and harassment

On June 25, 2023, my ex-partner submitted a request to EE to block and disable my private phone number, to which she had no rights. After the intervention of the judge during the initial hearing, my phone was unblocked. However, after a few days, it was blocked again, and only after my intervention was it unblocked once more.			Evidence: text messages
My ex-partner on either the 24th or 25th of June 2023 filed a request for a restraining order, prohibiting me from approaching or having any contact with her. On the 26th of June 2023, she sent me a message saying, "If you want, we can talk. If you use this message against me, I will never contact you again."			Evidence: text messages
On June 28, 2023, despite the contact ban, my ex-partner sent me another message, threatening that if I don't take all my belongings by July 3, 2023, she will throw away all my items, including those related to the "Phones Rescue" company.			Evidence: Screenshot

My ex-partner was spying on and tracking my location using the Life360 app. She persistently sent me invitations to install this app multiple times. If I refused to install it, she became aggressive. On March 18, 2023, she also sent me two invitations to another location-tracking app: Microsoft Family Safety.			Evidence: Screenshots and e-mails
On June 24, 2023, the day after my ex-partner said "our relationship ended", my ex-partner gained unauthorized access to my Instagram account and, after reading my correspondence, sent me three messages: "Do you miss Gemma, huh?", "Are you chatting with her on Instagram?", "I knew it, you scumbag. Don't even show your face to me."			Evidence: Screenshot
On the night of June 24-25, 2023 (while I was in police custody), my ex-partner deleted the FanPage of my company "Phones Rescue" from Facebook. It was only after my intervention that I managed to reactivate it.			Evidence: Screenshot
27-06-2023 (which is 6 days after our breakup), my ex-partner continued to stalk my private phone number using the EE app. She sent a message to my friend saying "My heart is bleeding and you still talking to him ;(I don't know what to say to you"			Evidence: Screenshot, witness

On September 26, 2023, my ex-partner stated in her statement: " have also seen his phone where he searched 'Love at the first signs with Aries". After checking my internet browser history, it turned out that the phrase provided by my ex-partner was searched by me on September 15, 2023. This indicates that my partner is spying on my search history using one of my devices, which I was forced to leave at home, 3 months after our breakup.			Evidence: Browsing history.
